

THE OLYMPIC GAMES

Being in the birthplace of the most important athletic event of the world, we could not resist designing and preparing a special activity for you…

The Beach Olympics!

Challenging and totally entertaining activities that everyone can take part regardless of their age, gender and physical condition, but with only one condition… "fair play"!

And although it might sound a bit difficult for a corporate environment, we offer you the field to challenge this theory!

Perform at your best and be the winners of our special medals during our enthusiastic award ceremony.

3, 2, 1….GO!

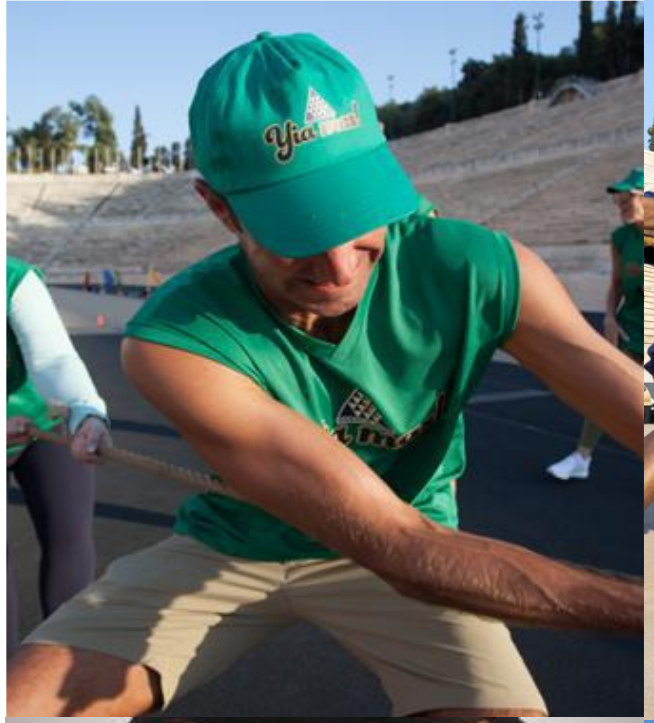
ANCIENT OLYMPIC GAMES

Tug of war is a competitive team activity where two teams compete to pull a rope in opposite directions. The goal is to move a marker on the rope, often a flag or a specific point, past a certain designated line on the ground, indicating victory for one team.

Each team lines up on opposite sides of the rope, and the participants grip the rope and try to pull it in their direction. The team that manages to pull the marker over the line wins the game. Tug of war is a test of strength, teamwork, and strategy.

Relay run is a team racing activity where participants take turns to run a designated distance, passing a baton from one runner to the next. The objective is to complete the race as quickly as possible.

The race begins with the first runner, who carries the baton, and they pass it to the next runner in a designated exchange zone. This process continues until all team members have completed their legs. Relay runs emphasize teamwork & speed.



ANCIENT OLYMPIC GAMES

Long jump is an engaging activity that offers a unique twist on the traditional sport.

In this challenge, participants will try to do the longest jump in relay by using only weights.

Chariot races is a fun activity that needs team cooperation. Participants will transform into racing horses to lead their chariot in the finish line.
